

Ridges and Ghost Craters in the Northern Plains Revealed by MOLA Topography

The resolution of the Mars Orbiter Laser Altimeter reveals changes in the topography that were not seen in previous images. This MOLA image shows ridges and craters that were not visible in earlier images. These images of new features give scientists a new look at the surface of Mars.

Image Credit: Dr. Susan Sakimoto, Geodynamics Branch, NASA Goddard Space Flight Center